The interfaith chapel is open to meditation and prayer to people of all denominations. After entering through a quiet, low-lit narthex featuring large-scale contemplative artwork, the uplifting, brightly lit chapel interior is beautifully paired with bamboo flooring, river rock, and translucent glazing. Also featured is a unique commissioned glass wall that also serves as a prominent detail in the grand concourse.

In 2002, Stamford Hospital in Stamford, Conn., was challenged on a couple fronts: Neighborhoods to the south of the campus were in socioeconomic deterioration, and patient satisfaction ratings had room for improvement. That set the stage for planning a new replacement hospital with the goal of bringing the 305-bed hospital to the leading edge of healthcare; engaging the medical staff,
